- We're going to making some peanut butter cups with a special jam layer inside of them. Before I get to that I just want to say, do you notice anything different? We're actually shooting on some new equipment today, and we're stepping up our live game. - And we're coming at you live like we always do on Tuesdays and Thursdays. - At 4 pm Pacific Standard Time. - The question was can I use watercolor? So that's actually an excellent question. - So if you like what you're seeing, then like our Facebook page, cause doesn't everybody want to know how to make a paper box. - [Narrator] If you haven't checked out cbtv, it's our new baby. Creative Bug has been working on this for a long time. - I knew when I was little, I was going to be an artist. - This is Lisa Congdon's new studio, and I can't wait to see it. - I'll show you around my new digs. - Oh my God. - This is beautiful. - [Lisa] Thank you. - Wow you do so many things in here, I can already tell. - [Narrator] It's about what you want to express. Art is whatever you want it to be. I think art is what makes you happy. - He will absolutely flip. Brandon will flip. - (laughs) - This is Creative Bug's daily creativity challenge. Everyday I'm going to show you a different way to draw an everyday object or bit of nature. - I'm really excited about this series, because unlike any of the classes I taught before we're going to pull back from doing specific step by step projects and instead dive more deeply into the process of making. - [Male Narrator] If I want anything in the world it's to be able to encourage people. I'm giving away all my secrets, and when I'm working very, very hard at something I think I hope somebody has the courage to do a version of this themselves.
